DAILY WHIG AND COURIER.

JOHN S. BAYWARD, Editor

THURSDAY, MARCH 10, 1842.

WHIG CAUCUS.

The Whigs of Bangor will meet at the City Hall, at 7 o'clock, THIS EVENING to nominate a candidate for Mayor, for the ensuing year, and to transact such other business as may come before the meeting.

Per order of the City Committee.
Bangor, March 10, 1842.

Caucus This Evening...

The Whigs of Bangor, are reminded of the public caucus to be held at the City Hall, this evening. It is important that the whigs of the city should turn out in good numbers, and select their candidate to be supported for the Mayoralty of the city. The whigs have their veteran opponents to deal with, and they have also a new and zealous party to meet in the present contest.

It matters not that some of these men have formerly acted with the Whig party, for reasons best known to themselves, and under the idea of building up a great party out of the fragments of all others, they have departed from the whigs - started upon their own hook, and feel a degree of personal pride in gaining followers. Hence, great personal efforts: hence, a variety of arguments, suited to the persons to whom they are addressed, and hence the high hopes raised in their minds in behalf of their party.

It may not be a pleasant thing to part with any of those who have been our political associates, but if they purposely place themselves in opposition, political consistency and honor demand of the whigs, they should go forward with their principles. There is need that our friends should be active at the preliminary meetings in the city, and the several wards, and go forward understandingly in the selection and the support of their candidates.

Let us all go up to the temple of our political association, and consult together for the public good, and agree upon our chosen men, and give them the warm support of other days.

Our city has stood for years against all the powerful battering rams of political intrigue and opposition, and kept her brightness undimmed, and her green-spot unseared. The same energy and the same cause can carry her through the new trial, with freshness and honor.

Fatal Casualty.

Capt. James Head of Orono, while engaged in felling a large pine, on the 25th ult. in company with one of his little boys and a hired man, was instantly killed by a limb thrown back by a smaller tree, which had been bent forward by the falling pine. The fatal missile was probably thrown up a considerable distance, as it was not discovered by any of the party until it had nearly reached its victim, and was then falling in a perpendicular direction.

Capt. H. was 51 years of age, and has left an amiable wife, to deplore the irreparable loss of a kind and affectionate husband; and seven children, (most of whom are young,) to mourn their separation from a tender, indulgent and provident parent. But although by this afflictive dispensation, they are overwhelmed by grief, and involved in the depths of human woe, we fondly trust that some of their unhappy number have been enabled, duly to appreciate, and find consolation in the immediate pledge of Him, who has promised to be "a Father to the fatherless and the widow's God."

Postponement.

On account of the ill-health of Mr. Ryder, and the stormy weather, the Washingtonian Temperance Lecture will be postponed to to-morrow evening at the Baptist church.

Mr. We learn by the National Intelligencer that Samuel Upton, Esq. formerly of this city, and Editor of the Daily Whig, died in that city 3d inst. aged 58 years.

We have been obliged to cut down the letter of our Augusta Correspondent to the smallest limits on account of the late hour at which it arrived.

HUXT'S MERCHANTS' MAGAZINE: Vol. VI. No. 5 March, 1842. Freeman Hunt, New-York. $4.00.

This Magazine occupies a high place in our periodical literature, and for commercial statistics and affairs, occupies the highest place, and speaks by authority.

The favorite article in the present number, is "Free Trade freely Reciprocated; or Countervailing Protection to our Home Interests," by C. C. Haven, in behalf of the "Home League." It is an interesting article, only to be found fault with in matter or style, by the dry, hard, abstract Free trade theorist. To the popular mind, it must be highly convincing.

The number contains original papers on "Mediterranean Commerce with India," "The Equation of Payments," "Merchants' and Mercantile Law," "Tobacco Trade," "Measurement of Ships," "Russian Law of Co-partnership," "Morals of Trade," "Laws Relative to Debtor and Creditor," and a sketch of the life of Benjamin Bussey, as an eminent merchant.

The statistical department is full and comprehensive, and contains an able summary of the U. S. census for 1840.

Smith & Feno are the agents for the Magazine in this city.

The presses in many parts of the country are by no means ceremonious in the language they adopt in relation to the doings of the present Congress. The waste of time, the unprofitable debates, the inattention to business, the wranglings, bickerings, and disorder which seem to characterize the present House of Representatives, as a body, are rebuked with deserved severity, by many of our editorial brethren. In an article on this subject, the New Hampshire Courier has the following remarks:

"We trust all parties will unite in one thing in selecting candidates for the next Congress, and that is, let no man of any party be supported who is not in favor of reducing the mileage of members 50 per cent, and their per diem pay 25 per cent. This would give a member of Congress from this place to Washington, $100, while it would require two days of his time, and $12 of his money, thus giving him $53 for two days' ride, or $4150 per day. And who does not consider $6 per day ample compensation for such men as usually go to Congress? And with the reduction of mileage and day wages should be coupled the abolition of the franking privilege now allowed to members of Congress. As soon as a reform can be had in Congress, we shall have laid the foundation for a reform in all branches of the Government. The people should see too, that no man is elected to the next Congress, who is not in favor of doing all that Congress can do, to put a final stop to the importation, distillation, sale, and consumption of intoxicating drinks. We must have a thorough reform in Congress, and a reform in the use of existing liquors is as much needed as any other reform. When every member of Congress shall be a 'tee-totaler,' there will be an end to most of the disgraceful scenes that now disgrace the country."

The New York Sun says "The Steamer Missouri made an experimental trip, a few days since, which resulted most satisfactorily. She left the Navy Yard about 2 o'clock P. M., and rounding the Battery, proceeded up the North River some distance, then returned and wended her way down the Bay to the Narrows. An immense number of citizens, attracted to the wharves by her booming guns, witnessed her majestic, and even graceful movement, with admiration. Her machinery worked with apparent perfection, and she walked the waters like a thing of life." Her speed was about ten knots when we saw her passing down our beautiful Bay; but what steam she used we are not advised.

VERMONT AROUSING!

A large meeting of the citizens of Rutland County assembled at Rutland on the 22d to consider the propriety of memorializing Congress in favor of efficient Protection to Domestic Industry. Hon. Moses Strong presided. A brief but forcible "memorial" was adopted and twenty-five delegates were appointed from the several towns in the County to attend the Home League Convention in New York on the 5th of April next.

It is reported at New Orleans that official news had been received at Metamora of a battle somewhere up the Rio Grande, between the Mexicans and Texans, in which the latter were victorious, and after a severe engagement, captured five hundred of the Mexicans more or less.

The account further states that two of the Mexicans escaped to bring the news to Metamora. This report may be true, but it is doubted.

The American Mechanic, one of our favorite exchanges gives us credit for an article in so indolent a manner as to be quite useless. The article headed "A Process for Extracting the Cube Root" should be credited to the Courier, and not "exchange paper!" How is it?

A young man by the name of Hogan has been arrested at Lockport, charged with being one of the party who attacked the Steamboat Caroline. It is said he admits his connection with that transaction, and throws himself on the protection of the British government.

the House resumed the consideration of the Bill to regulate Banks, and the amendment of Mr. Swan adopted and the bill passed to be engrossed.

Mr. Otis of St. George, by leave, laid upon the table a Resolve in relation to the Insane Hospital, providing for an investigation to be made into the affairs of the Hospital by the Hon. R. P. Dunlap, William Emmons, Sanford Kingsbury, Nathan Weston, and Edward Kavanaugh, the resolve was referred to a Select Committee who subsequently reported and the resolve was again read and to-morrow assigned.

Bill to alter the mode of advertising Real Estate for the non-payment of town taxes, was referred to the next Legislature.

Leave of absence granted to Messrs. Perkins, Bartlett, and Hersey from and after Friday next.

In Senate, papers from the Finance disposed of in concurrence.

The bill additional to an act to incorporate the Penobscot Boom Corporation was reported in a new draft and passed to be engrossed.

The Committee on North Eastern Boundary made a report which was accepted and 1000 copies ordered to be printed with accompanying documents.

Passed to be enacted. An Act to provide for expenditures of the government in part an act authorizing further time for closing the concerns of the Franklin Bank, an act relating to proceedings in civil cases, and the powers of Justices of the Peace; an act to incorporate the Gardner Mechanic Association.

Finally passed Resolves in favor of Arthur L. Grant, in relation to the distribution of the Annual School Fund in favor of J. Wellington.

The Workman.

Every man has more or less of love, respect, a sort of veneration for the tools with which he works. We mean every good workman, for the workman has no respect for himself, and can not therefore be expected to prize anything, except in so far as his necessities may compel him. The finished workman, of whatever trade or occupation, may be known by his tools does he deal in edge tools? they are always bright, keen, and in the very best order, always ready for instant use. The instruments of his calling are dear to him, because they enable him to show the beauty of his workmanship, and gain, by their skillful use, not only the means of subsistence, but a NAME as a WORKMAN, which to the ambitious mechanic, is as precious as his existence.

In order to become a proficient a master workman, (not in the general acceptation of the term master) it is necessary to imbibe a love for ones occupation to take delight in it, and to esteem it above all other employments. This is generally acquired by habit.

During apprenticeship the years (and long ones, it must be confessed, they seem) spent in learning a business, a taste for its peculiarities generally, not always engendered in the tyro. When this is the case, he seldom if ever fails to become a good workman, every thing that comes from his skillful hand, will be pronounced, in its kind excellent. This is the pleasure, the satisfaction, the delight, which only the workman can know. He knows his ability knows too that he has but to exert it, and his work is finished in a masterly manner faultless, claiming and receiving the admiration of his co-workers, and demanding the price of a good job. Is not this satisfaction? Let the half-taught bungler fumble and fret over his work, confound his occupation and all engaged in the exercise of it, let him growl at what he calls the hard labor, or close application necessary to the accomplishment of his object; he is no nearer perfection than when he commenced his work may be made an end of, but is never finished, and thus he goes through life rendering not only himself, but those around him miserable and unhappy.

Has the Printer no regard, no respect for the type he handles? Has he no affection for his case? no latent liking for his STICK and RULES? Does he not pride himself on keeping his case clean free from dirt and emptiness? Does he not glout over a clean PROOF, and despise the page with a scored margin? Has not the alphabet more value in his eye, than is attributed to it by members of other professions, and takes no delight in forming with his vowels, diphthongs, and consonants, pages, which by his skill in his ART, are sent forth to amuse, instruct, and edify the world? Assuredly he has.

Assuredly he has.

There are grades in the art of printing as well as in other professions there are some who compose swiftly, and others who are slow. There are some clean compositors and some dirty ones. Heaven save us from the latter! by their proofs we know them.

Then there is the old FOUNT what an innumerable number of impressions has been made upon it, and what impression has its time-worn face made upon the minds of men, of good or evil. Here we might moralize, but we must come to a period, as the old fount has before us.

Chinese Notion of England.

A Chinese treatise on Geography contains the following description of England and its inhabitants:

"The kingdom of Yingkeihle (England) is a dependent or tributary State of Holan (Holland). Their garments, and manners in eating and drinking, are the same. The males use much cloth, and like to drink wine. The females, before marriage, bind the waist, being desirous to look slender. Their hair hangs in curls over their necks; they use a short garment and petticoats, but dress in a large cloth when they go out. They take snuff out of boxes made of gold and threads."

Household Treasures.

BY MARY HOWITT.

What are they? gold and silver, Or what such ore can buy? The pride of silken luxury? Rich robes of Tyrian dye?

Guests that come thronging in With kindly pomp and state? Or thankless, liveried serving men To stand about the gate?

Or are they daintiest meats Sent up on silver plate?

Or golden chased cups o'erbrimmed With rich Falernian wine?

Or parchments setting forth Broad lands our fathers held?

Parks for our deer, ponds for our fish, And woods that may be felled?

No, no, they are not these! or else

God help the poor man's need!

Then, sitting 'mid his little ones,

He would be poor indeed!

They are not these! our household wealth

Belongs not to degree;

It is the love within our souls

The children at our knee!

My heart is filled with gladness.

When I behold how fair,

How bright are rich men's children,

With their thick golden hair!

For I know, 'mid countless treasure,

Gleaned from the east and west;

These living, loving human beings

Are still the rich man's best!

But my heart o'erfloweth to mine eyes,

And a prayer is on my tongue,

When I see the poor man's children.

The toiling, through the young

Gathering, with sun-burnt hands,

The dusty way side flowers!

Alas! that pastime symboleth

Life's after, darker hours!

My heart o'erfloweth to mine eyes,

When I see the poor man's children.

After his daily work is done,

With children by the hand;

And this, he kisses tenderly;

And that, sweet names doth call

For I know he has no treasure

Like these dear children small.

Oh, children young, I bless ye,

Ye keep such love alive!

And the home can ne'er be desolate

When love has room to thrive!

Oh, precious household treasures!

Life's sweetest, holiest claim

The Saviour blessed ye while on earth

I bless ye in his name!

Signs of Prosperity

Where ploughs grow bright, and idle swords grow dull;

Where jails are empty, and where horns are full;

Where quib paths are with frequent feet out worn;

Law court-yards weedy, silent and forlorn;

Where doctors foot it, and where farmers ride;

Where abounds, and youth is multiplied;

A happy people, and well governed state.

Where doctors foot it, and where farmers ride; Where abounds, and youth is multiplied; A happy people, and well governed state.

Some Scoundrels have counterfeited this article, and put it up with various devices. Do not be imposed upon. One thing only will protect you, it is the name of COMSTOCK & Co.; that name must be always on the upper, or you are cheated. Do not forget it. Take this direction with you, and test by this, or never buy it; for it is impossible for any other to be true or genuine. Sold by COMSTOCK & Co., 71 Maiden Lane, New York.

MYSTERIOUS.

A GENTLEMAN belonging to one of the most ancient and wealthy families of this city, who must be well known to numerous friends, having since the year 1818 up to recently, been bent nearly double, and for several years confined to his bed, has been restored to good health, has regained his natural erect position, and has quitted his carriage, and now walks with ease! We believe, this is the gentlemen's own description as near as possible, and there is no exaggeration in it. We will give inquirers his address, and doubt not his humane feelings will excuse the liberty; so that any one doubting may know these facts though he requires his name may not appear in print. Among other similar instances, Mr. James G. Reynolds, 144 Chauncy street, has been restored, and will give personal assurances of the facts of his case. Both are rheumatism, and contracted cords and sinews. How hath this been done?

Answer. By Hence's Nerve and Bone Liniment externally.

Sold by COMSTOCK & Co., 71 Maiden Lane,
New York.

For sale in Bangor by G. W. LADD, corner of Smith's Block, a. A. P. GUILD, Exchange St.
and by G. W. HOLDEN, West Market Place.

THE LION OF THE PAY.

THE OLD VEGETABLE OR GERMAN PILLS,
THE POSITIVE, OR NO PAY.

THEY are highly recommended by Dr. Valentine Mott, of the city of New York. A medicine to prevent the attacks of disease, to keep the system in healthy action, and to eradicate as soon as possible every disease as soon as it appears, has been the great study of medical men for many years without success. The subscriber, however, not expecting his Pills to cure all the ills which flesh is heir to, confidently recommends them as certain and efficacious in the following: Headache, Jaundice, Dyspepsia, Cholic, bilious, remittent, and intermittent Fevers, diseases of the Liver, and Spleen, Female Obstructions, Rheumatism, Foul Stomach, Dizziness of the Head, Loss of Appetite, Weakness, and trembling of the Limbs, Nausea, or sickness at the Stomach, Flushing of the Face, Summer Complaints, Measles, Scarlet Rash, and will be found valuable in complaints of the Digestive Organs, and particularly those arising from impurity of the blood.
As a preservative against Fevers, no persons should go to war, unless without a box of these Pills; and they are entirely of vegetable ingredients, and can be taken safely, without fear. Price, 32 cents a box.

For sale at A. GEYER'S Drug Store, 104 Hanover street, corner of Salem street, Boston, General
